Benny Volger's Knockout Performances Entitle Him to Bout With Kilbane.

By CROSS COUNTER.

Boxing contests minus decisions on points by referees apparently are on the way to complete extinction. Richard Howell, who recently was appointed-Boxing Commissioner for Bridgeport, Conn., has at the outset landed a resounding thump on the jaws of the boxers who delight in limited decision-less bouts. Referees will decide on oints at the end of bouts that last the official limit of twelve rounds, and cham-pions with a studied disinclination to risk their titles in a contest to a deislon doubtless will remain away from the Connecticut town.

Howell pays his respects to the decisionless type of boxer in the follow-ing straight from the shoulder language: "The only men who object to de-cision bouts are the boxers and their managers, and their reason for objecting is that they can fool the public, and keep on boxing without fear of their official records being injured, knowing full well that a no decision contest cannot carry any weight in the record bouts our boxing records have becom ractically a joke.

"It is a deep and intricate game that is played in the boxing arena these days. but in Bridgeport hereafter clubs, man-ngers and boxers will play the game fair or they will be set down for a susension which may be final if their offences warrant that extreme action, for the Boxing Commission will be invested with the necessary power to suspend ission's rules."

As Chief of Police Smith of New Haven refuses to permit any bout in that city unless the referee gives a decision and as Hartford also insists on decisions, it begins to look as though the reign of the decisionless tomfooler; is nearing an end. There is not the slightest doubt that the fallure to give verdicts in all bouts, which originated ith the Frawley law, and has been copable harm to the sport and permitted a horde of tricky boxers to make large sums of money without giving the pub-lic a fair return for the expenditure. It is quite true that it would be un-champion who had won his title decision on points in a shorter contest. For example, Benny Leonard won e lightweight title in a decisionless out limited to ten rounds, through the bout limited to ten rounds, through the Edistis boxing critics had a premon-medium of a knockout.
